

Michigan ranks fourth in the nation for peach production and fifth for plum production.

Stone fruits are good sources of potassium and vitamins A and C.

Most large peach and plum farms are located along the coasts of the lower peninsula.