While this examination is open to you, the faculty, you are not obligated to attend (unless you are a member of the Guidance or Examination Committee, of course). This notice is issued to at least alert you of the status of this particular graduate student program and to formally invite your participation. We have collectively agreed that emphasis should be placed on the final two Ph.D. exams in regard to faculty participation.

Under all circumstances, the Major Professor is in charge of the exam and will use his/her discretion in soliciting questions from non-committee members. Final deliberations will be made in closed sessions.
